Click on "Listen and Appraise" and listen to the song "Let the bright Seraphim". This was written by George Frederick Handel and the song was completed in 1742, over 250 years ago! It is a style called Baroque. This song is a well-known Aria, an Italian word that describes a solo voice in opera. The song is written for two performers, a soprano (high female voice) and trumpet. This is also accompanied by a small chamber string orchestra.

You can click on the questions button and answer some of the questions after you have listened to the song. Click on the "about the song" button if you want to find out more about this song. You can also watch the video performance of the song below.
