

The Human Life Cycle

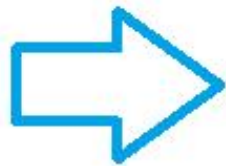

Look at these pictures. They show people of different ages. Can you put them in order, from youngest to oldest?

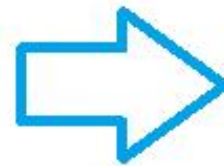

This is the correct order:

Baby

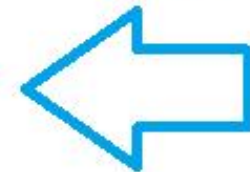

Child

Teenager

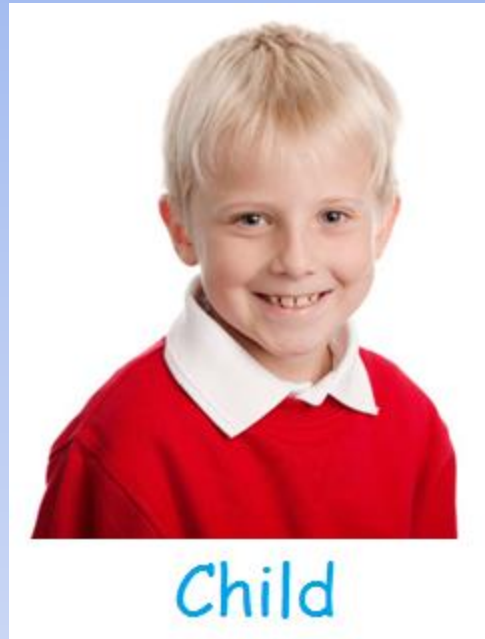

Adult

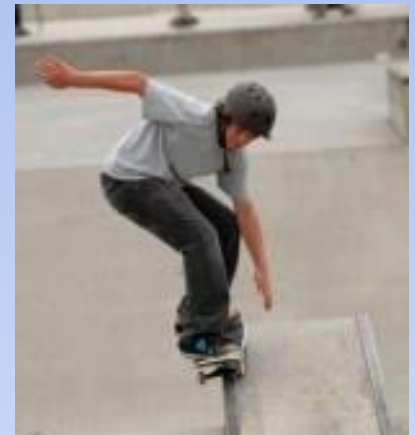

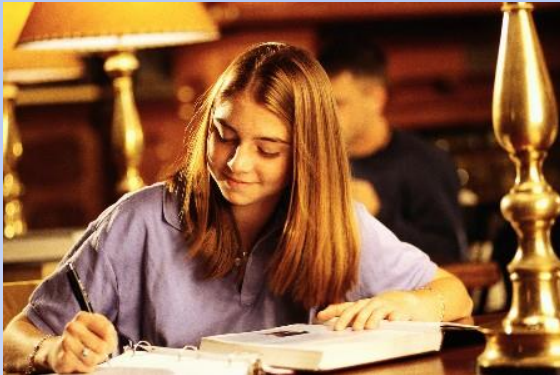

Elderly
Person

A baby needs a lot of help so that it can survive and grow.

A child still needs a lot of help to be able to survive, although they are starting to learn to do things for themselves.

Teenagers are able to do most things without help. They are learning how to be grown ups and survive on their own.

Adults are fully grown. They go to work and can now have babies of their own. Adults can do things for themselves. They are extremely busy and have lots of responsibility.

Elderly people have worked hard during their lives. Now their bodies are getting tired and they need to rest more. They still like having fun though!
