“Recruits, you and Chief Boggo have been doing an excellent job on the missing animals case. To continue raising the awareness of the residents of Zootropolis we need each one of you to prepare a statement about one missing animal.

This will be filmed for the press conference we are having in Zootropolis later today. I look forward to hearing them and thank you for your hard work in this important case.”

Your speech should include the following information about the case animal:

- What is the news?
- Why is this important news?
- Where is this happening?
- What was the timing of the event?
- How did this happen?

To make your press release impactful and memorable for the animals of Zootropolis make sure you speak clearly, keep eye contact, use interesting adjectives and keep it under a minute.

It is a very good idea to practise your speech a couple of times before you are filmed.
